ter last evening by the Lewis-Oliver players, was a big success in every way and was enjoyed by a big crowd, which turned out to see the play and the new company.Ed Clarke Lilley as Bob Blake had a wonderful part and easily won his way into the hearts of the people. Miss Kitty Kirk as Beth Elliott, the pretty sick agent, played her part to perfection and judging by the encores she received Miss Kirk will be a strong favorite with the "Palace" patrons.
Fred Beaudoin as Bill Crab, the trunk bustler, and Julius, the porter, in the last part of the play, was a great favorite and as usual had some very good comedy parts. In fact the whole company—which includes Barry Donnelly, Tex Perry, Lawrence Sullivan, Dick Evans, Warren Beverly, Isabelle Arnold and Nelda Gibson handled all the parts well."The Traveling Salesman" will be played the rest of this week with a special matinee Saturday.Oliver Morosco, the western manager, is planning for a stock company in the East on the same lines as his famous producing stock company in Los Angeles. He has in mind for the location of this company either Boston, Washington, Providence, Philadelphia or Pittsburgh."A Night at Maxim's" is the title of the comedy offering of Jewell's Jubilee Girls at the Odeon today. This miniature musical comedy with all its surroundings looks like a $2 attraction. It is drawing large audiences, and judging from the laughs that are produced it is evident that everybody enjoys it.Jewell's company is certainly a feature attraction. The production pre-sents a kaleidoscope of swift action, seven stunning beauties, laughs galore and dancing such as local theatergoers are sure to remember for many a day.
All the musical numbers are new, and the costumes are different than those worn in the first bill. The management can be proud of an attraction of this kind, and the public should not miss this show at the Odeon this week."Oklahoma," by George Scarborough, which is shortly to be produced, was one of the last plays arranged for by the late Charles Frohman before he started on his ill-fated voyage. The company will include John Courtleigh, Leonore Ulrich and Isabel O'Madigan.
The opening performance will be in Boston.

in the week has been playing brilliant ball since and has not lost a game.As the Wheeling high five is always in the running for the state championship the game tonight will decide how strong the local five really is and how much of a chance it has to top the championship.A large crowd is expected to attend the game tonight as the newly organized Clarksburg High School Alumni Association which has a meeting and social session in the school building tonight will attend the game in a body.

ORPHEUM PRESENTS
CYRIL MAUDE FILMNoted Actor is Starred in Splendid Vehicle, "The Greater Will."Cyril Maude appears in "The Greater Will" at the Orpheum theater today.
Cornelius Sloane, an old retired antique dealer, while playing chess one evening with Father Malone, the village priest, is shocked to hear of the return to America of one Stuart Watson, a millionaire art collector.
Asked for reason for his feeling, he tells his story:His daughter, just graduated from college, through a patron of old Sloane, a Mr. Carson, meets Stuart Watson, who falls in love with her.
Carson had prevailed upon the girl to pose for him, and it was through him that she became acquainted with the millionaire. The latter had a most peculiar power of hypnotism, and in this way compelled the girl to go through an imaginary marriage with him. Later, the father learned of the affair and swore vengeance on her betrayer.Sloane, when he learns of the homecoming of the art collector, thinks the time has come for his vengeance. Ac-cordingly, it is arranged between him and a friend that Watson be brought to his house. While there, he is told of the child born to Peggy Sloane, but he is not impressed, and tries his hypnotic power on the old man. The latter, however, overcomes Watson by his stronger will and makes him subservient to his superior mental powers. He tells him that every night at 11 o'clock a vision of the girl he wronged will appear to him. This comes to pass and Watson is driven mad, killing himself some time later.Tomorrow and New Year's day, "Not Guilty," a beautiful drama of romance and adventure, featuring Cyril Scott, will be the special offering. Special music will also be played by the pipe organ and the Cadenza orchestra on this occasion.May Allison of the American (Mutual) Star Company takes the title part in the next feature "Lulu of the Sulseas" by Kenneth Clark. Her part calls for a lot of swimming and diving. Harold Lockwood will direct as well as take the lead in the photoplay. Lockwood is a wealthy New York merchant, and May Allison has the attractive role of a pearl diver.The great Triangle feature "Matrimony" in which Julia Dean is starred, is being received by the Bijou patrons with unprecedented enthusiasm. The play is an unusually fine drama characterized by delicate comedy moments and some unusually fine acting on the part of Miss Dean. The story is an argument for fair play in marital relations. It does not attempt to point the way to a solution of the usual cause of domestic strife, but contents itself with accepting the truth of the old adage that "What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander."His Father's Footsteps is the funny Triangle Keystone edition and is an amusing story of a boy's honest love for a dashing and beautiful actress who completely wins and discomfits the father, Ford Sterling, in a series of adventures when father steals a "night off."Under the direction of Reginald Barker, work was begun this week at Inceville, on the production of the Triangle Kay-Bee feature in which Thomas H. Ince will present Master William Collier, Jr., as star. The story, which is from the pen of C.
Gardner Sullivan, was written especially for young Collier and affords him, it is claimed, wonderful opportunities.
It is a military story and the clever son of the famous comedian is wearing a uniform.Marguerite Clark in "Helene of the North" is now being presented at the Robinson Grand. As Helene, Miss Clark is just as sweet and entrancing as she has always been, and much more effective in a dramatic manner than she has ever before been on the screen. This latest five-part feature on the Paramount program combines in a decidedly novel manner the cultured atmosphere of aristocratic society circles with the rugged environment of the trackless wastes of northwestern Canada. Between these far extremes the drama sways with uninterrupted fascination, and whether in the limitless wilds, or the warm luxurious drawing room, Marguerite Clark is equally effective and enchanting.Tomorrow William Fox will present William Farnum and Dorothy Bernard in the latest Fox sensation entitled "The Broken Law."In "My Lady Innes," which was written especially for her, Hazel Dawn plays a character different from any she has previously interpreted on the screen. It is a big comedy with a big thrill, in which she plays a detective role, masquerading as a baroness in high society. This Famous Players-Paramount production will be released January 24."The Traveling Salesman" the play

SECOND KING
WITHOUT ANY KINGDOM NOWKing Peter of Serbia Finds Himself no Better Off Than the King of Belgium.(Correspondence of the Associated Press.) VIENNA, Dec. 30.—There is a second king in Europe without a kingdom, as a result of the war. Peter of Serbia, is today no better off than the king of the Belgians.
Karageorgovich is a fugitive before the advance of the Central Powers and Bulgarian troops. His two capitals, Belgrade and Nish, are in the hands of the invaders. For a time King Peter traveled in a special train. At Krusevatch he had to abandon his movable court. As he stood in the station building of that town and waited for the automobile that was to take him to other parts, tears streamed down his cheeks. One of his dwindling entourage murmured a few comforting words, but to these King Peter merely nodded.In many respects King Peter is the most dramatic figure of the European war. Two regicides are immediately connected with his history, the murder of his predecessor, Alexander Obrenovitch, and his queen, Draga, and the assassination of the Archduke of Austria, the Dual Mon-PIPES AND UMBRELLAS REPAIRED AT
Levy's Cigar Store
Watch our window for special sales.archy's heir presumptive. There are those who claim that King Peter knew of the two plots, that, indeed, he was the instigator of the former.
How true this is would be hard to say in the absence of more evidence than has so far been produced. Certain it is only that King Peter showed no inclination to be severe with the regicides in either case. He even managed to be on good terms with Major Mischke, arch villain of the crime in the old Konak of Belgrade thirteen years ago.Peter Karageorgovitch never forgot, and never was permitted to forget, that he had taken the place of a man who had been foully murdered.
Only a few sovereigns consented to meet him, and he was always so ill at ease in the presence of strangers that he usually shunned them.King Peter's family, it is said, is of Gypsy origin. The original Karageorgovitch, or "son of Black George," however, was a shepherd. King Peter himself spent much of his life in Switzerland, where the summons to Serbia's ill-fated throne reached him.Shortly after his election to the kingship, Peter entered into close relations with the Russian crown. A large annual revenue was settled upon him with the understandingthat in all matters affecting Serbia's foreign policy he was to keep Russia's interests on the Balkan peninsula in mind.The attitude of the Serbian Liberal party made such a course by Russia advisable. This party had favored the establishment of a republic in Serbia after Alexander and Draga had been murdered. This, and the fact that the Liberals in those days were not the ardent pan-Slavists which they became later, recommended in the reinforcement of the Serbian crown financially. In Petrograd it was felt that Russia needed a reliable agent in the Balkans, nor could it be overlooked there that experiments in republicanism calculated by a Slav people were not calculated to make life for the Romanoff dynasty easier. For twelve years, Peter drew his Russian revenues, and it is asserted here, never lost an opportunity to serve in return. The arrangement made Serbia a veritable appendix to Russia, and so far as the European war has now progressed, proved Serbia's undoing. Whether or not Peter will ever again rule in Serbia is hard to say at this moment; in the Central Powers the belief, of course, is that Serbia and its king are no more.
